The Two Brides.

And both were fair and sweet,

I saw two maidens at the kirk,

The choristers sung the hymn,

The sacred rites were read, And one for life to Life,

And one to Death, was wed.

In leveliness and bloom;

The other a solemn tomb.

In a world of sin and pain ;

But the other was happier far,

Out of the Tavern, &c.

Right hand and left hand are both out of place :

Out of the tavern I've just stepped to-night;

Street! you are caught in a very bad plight.

Street, you are drunk, 'tis a very clear case.

Moon, 'tis a very queer figure you cut :

One eye is staring, while t'other is shut.

Old as you are, 'tis a terrible shame.

None of them soberly standing upright,

Each of the lamps is drunk as a lord.

All is confusion; now isn't it odd?

I am the only thing sober abroad.

Better go into the tavern again.

Tipsy, I see; and you're greatly to blame;

Rocking and staggering; why, on my word,

Sure it were rash with this crew to remain,

A Good Cuc.

Then the street lamps, what a scandalous sight!

And never woke again !

One on the morrow woke
